It is no crime to give a bogus check to a bootlegger in payment for his wares, but even at that it is a hard trick to get away with, for the reason that bootleggers do not accept checks.

Two words which, though now uncomplimentary, were once quite the reverse are "officious," which formerly meant kind, and "conceited," which meant full of ideas or originality.

The doctors have discovered that there is an ailment which may be classified as "tobacco paralysis." It does not affect the power of speech, however, as all can testify who are daily assailed with "What kind of chewing do you use?" or "Say, give me a chew."

Summer wanes, and the tired business man, the pretty girl employee and the school boys and girls wonder why it has to be another year before vacation time rolls around. They also figure the number of days before Christmas and how many dollars will be left for Christmas presents and a winter outfit.

Two little Paris boys were standing in front of Shire & Fithian's show window the other day, admiring a steel engraving of Lafayette. "Who is that feller, Mister?" asked one of a passer-by, who noted them. Being told of the great service Lafayette rendered America the kid passed it all up and innocently remarked, "Oh, pshaw, I thought he was some new base ball player."

The boys are telling a good story on a well-known Paris merchant, who has a very decided penchant for poker. It seems that this young man was out a little later than usual the other night with a party of friends "rushing the deck," and, on arriving home in the early hours of the morning, found that the wife of his bosom was sleeping soundly and snugly. Not wishing to awaken her—or to be compelled to think up a reasonable excuse for being out so late, or so early—he tiptoed in, successfully, and, without turning on a light, reached in the clothes closet for his "nightie." This secured, he crept into bed, and, congratulating himself on his strategy, was soon asleep.

Imagine his horror when awakened by his wife the next morning to find that in the darkness he had selected as his robe de nuit her best pink organdie dress in lieu of his "nightie." The boys draw the curtain over what followed, but they are handing him a beautiful raspberry these days when he raps around.

1922 TOBACCO POOL CLOSES NOVEMBER 6

Tobacco growers who desire to market their tobacco this year co-operatively will have until Monday, November 6, to sign the contract of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, according to the terms of a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the Association in regular monthly session in Lexington. After that date no new members will be received for this year, it was provided in the resolution.

A total membership of 67,709 was shown in the report of Assistant Chief of the Field Service Division William Collins, who estimated that the total number of members of the Association in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Tennessee will be more than 75,000 before the tobacco of the 1922 crop is delivered to the Association.

Clifton Rhodes, former manager of the West Virginia and Eastern Ohio territory, made his final report, showing that 2,938 growers in that territory had signed the contract, representing about 3,000,000 pounds of tobacco. Mr. Rhodes recommended that the staff of Kentuckians now on duty in that territory be continued until the closing date. He paid high tribute to the devotion to duty and the efficiency of H. B. Carpenter, Jr., of Lawrenceburg, Ky., who succeeded him as manager. Mr. Carpenter, with a force of six workers from this State, in addition to the local organization, will continue the campaign right up to the closing date.

Sales of a considerable amount of tobacco since the last meeting of the board were reported by President and General Manager James C. Stone, but at the request of the buyers no information as to the identity of the amounts of their purchases was given to the press.

In counties in which ten or more growers may request such action, President Stone will appoint an inspector and a challenger for the election September 16, at which delegates who will later select the directors will be chosen by ballot.

Chairman W. H. Shanks of the auditing committee, reported that he and his associates on the committee, R. P. Taylor, of Winchester, and Rev. J. R. Jones, of Cynthiana, had arranged for a complete audit of the books and papers of the Association and that the report would be ready to present to the new board of directors at its meeting in October.

The matter of insuring the property of the association against damage by tornado or windstorm was left to the executive committee. It developed that in two cases of loss by windstorm the Association was protected by policies of insurance.

HUNTINGTON BANK PRESIDENT SIGNS BURLEY CONTRACT

Contracts of tobacco growers to the number of 1,430 were received at the offices of the Burley Tobacco Association the past week, including that of C. H. Harrison, president of the Twentieth Street Bank, of Huntington, West Virginia, owner of two farms in that State, who signed up eight acres of tobacco to the Association.

Two hundred and ninety-nine of the new contracts came from Breckinridge county and 165 from the Eastern Kentucky District of James N. Kehoe and his workers. The others came from all parts of the district, showing, according to officials of the Association, that the signing up of growers is general throughout the territory. Director of Warehouses Ralph M. Barker visited a number of points in the district the past week, inspecting arrangements for the handling of the new crop at these points. Foster and Stanford will have new receiving plants, local business men having arranged for the financing of these plants, which will be taken over by the Association on the same terms as the other houses it now owns.

District grader J. Leslie Knight, of the western district, who has been busy for several weeks in that territory in connection with the re-grading of green tobaccos, said that half of the 1922 crop had been cut green and put in the barns and that his opinion was that the crop, as a whole, would not exceed that of 1921, which was the lightest of any year since the cut-out of 1908.

President and General Manager Jas. C. Stone went to Nicholasville and addressed a meeting of farmers, reviewing the accomplishments of the Burley Association during the first year of its existence. He was frequently applauded as he reviewed the steps in the first year's successful marketing of the crop co-operatively.

Early Learned Truth About Earth.

Erastosthenes was a Greek mathematician living in Egypt. He wrote a book on geography, and had so clear a perception of the shape of the earth that more than 1,700 years before Columbus he affirmed that it would be possible to sail from Spain to India by going always westward. He needed no telescope and no chronometer to find that out. Erastosthenes measured the circumference of the earth on precisely the principle that still lies at the basis of geodesy.

WEEKLY WEATHER AND CROPS SUMMARY

Moderate to heavy rainfall in the northeastern counties, following good rains in the previous week, practically broke the drought in that section. Late crops show considerable improvement, the condition of late corn and tobacco in that district ranging from fair to good. Stock water has been replenished, and pastures are revived. Only light scattered showers occurred in most of the central and western portions of the State, where the drought continues, and was intensified by the unseasonably high temperature. In those districts late corn and tobacco are scarcely growing and are in poor condition, especially in the hilly region.

Pastures continue short and dry, and feeding stock has been restored in places. Early corn is drying rapidly, and the quality of the grain is good. Cutting has commenced in the southern counties. Most early tobacco has been cut and housed, somewhat earlier than usual because of "firing" and premature ripening due to drought. In most of the State weather conditions were favorable for speedy curing and good quality of leaf; but the yield is much reduced on account of drought damage.

Fall plowing is beginning in the northern counties, where the soil was softened by heavy rains. Very little plowing has been done in the remainder of the State, where the soil is generally too dry to be worked. The late sown cowpeas will be benefited by the rains in the eastern counties, but in general this crop has been seriously damaged by the dry weather.

Late potatoes improved and are growing fairly well in most of the eastern half of the State; but they are in a critical condition in the western half. Some young clover has been killed by drought. The fourth crop of alfalfa is about ready to cut, but the yield will be short. Rain is badly needed in central and western districts.

KENTUCKY FALLING BEHIND IN GOOD ROADS

Keen interest was manifested recently in a published statement by the Postoffice Department showing that Kentucky stands second in the list of States, numerically, as to postoffices. Pennsylvania alone, with 2,987 offices, has a greater number than the Bluegrass State, which, with 2,568, is ahead even of New York, with its many millions of people, and Texas, with its expanse of territory.

An investigation to ascertain the reason for this, developed the interesting information that it is mainly accounted for by the fact that Kentucky's highways do not compare in number and character with those of other States. As explained at the Postoffice Department, just as fast as good roads are provided, additional rural free delivery routes are authorized and the smaller postoffices discontinued.

A postal map of Kentucky on display at the Department presents an interesting study. Each postoffice is represented by a dot. In the mountainous sections, particularly, these dots are so numerous as to make them difficult to count. By contrast, other States in which highway building programs have developed favorably, show a greater number of rural routes and fewer small postoffices. All of which led an official of the Department to comment: "The lack of roads seems to tell the story."

A bulletin recently issued by "Modern Highways," of which Senator Richard P. Ernst is president, and a number of other men prominent in official and professional life, officers, told how good roads and rural churches go hand in hand. An official of this Association remarked: "Just as the church, the school and the public health are closely related to modern highways, so it is now shown that the many conveniences of the rural free delivery also depend in great part upon them."

Codfish as Old as History.

Codfish is said to be the world's most important—which means the most eaten—fish. Few fish are more prolific. It has been asserted that one weighing 75 pounds will contain over 9,000,000 eggs. The cod is practically omnivorous, finding means to supply great schools wherever food of any sort is found. It is found in many parts of the world other than the North American "banks," and it is said that it has been fished for by fishermen of northern Europe since the beginning of recorded history and, of course, for uncountable centuries before man began to make written records.

Badger Villages.

Badgers live in burrows which they dig themselves and in some parts of the West these burrows are numerous in small areas, says the American Forestry Magazine. Although they were all the work of badgers, many of them had been dug to secure gophers, prairie marmots, mice and other rodents, upon which they prey. These burrows, often covering several acres, are a source of constant annoyance and danger to travelers on horseback.

Florida Named for Easter.

Florida was so called by Ponce de Leon because he discovered it on Easter Sunday, which is in Spanish Pascua Florida.

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 17

THE MESSAGE OF MALACHI

LESSON TEXT—Mal. 3:1-4:3.
GOLDEN TEXT—Return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of Hosts.—Mal. 3:7.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—II Kings 17:23; Isa. 6: Ezk. 2:1-7; Acts 20:35; II Cor. 8:1-15.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Promise of the Savior's Coming.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Offerings That Please God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What We Should Give to God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the Bible Teaches About Giving.

The subject of today's lesson is broader than the text, especially the verses printed. The best way to teach this lesson is to give a survey of the entire book.

Malachi was perhaps contemporary with Nehemiah; probably sustained the same relation to Nehemiah that Hagai and Zechariah did to Zerubbabel. After the completion of the walls of Jerusalem Nehemiah seems to have been called back to the Persian court, but returned to Jerusalem after a few years. Though outwardly the lives of the people were correct, the prophet pointed out the sins of a corrupt priesthood, mixed marriages and a failure to pay tithes.

I. Israel's Base Ingratitude (1:1-5).
God approached them with the tender affirmation "I have loved you." It was the prophet's burden to declare this fact unto them (v. 1). So formal and worldly were the people that they failed to see God's hand upon them. The attitude of Israel to God is shown in the skeptical insinuation "Wherein hast Thou loved us?" The prophet answers this by showing God's choice of Jacob and His passing by Esau; His destruction of Edom and saving Israel.

II. God's Severe Indictment (1:6-2:17).
1. Against the Priests (1:6-9). They were guilty (1) of profanity (1:6). Their profanity was in despising the name of God. To fail to honor God is to be profane. To use His name in any unbecoming way is to be thus guilty. (2) Sacrilege (vv. 7, 8). Their sacrilegious act was in offering polluted bread and blemished sacrifices. To bring such offerings to an earthly ruler would be a gross insult. Gifts to be acceptable with God must be genuine; must cost something. We should give to God our best. There is no intellect too brilliant to offer in the Lord's service. The young should not esteem their lives wasted who offer them on the altar of missionary sacrifice. (3) Greed (1:10). They were not willing to open the doors of God's house without pay. Our service should be out of a heart of love for God, not for profit. This has a vital application to ministers and evangelists today. To enter Christian service because of worldly gain is of this type. (4) Weariness (1:12, 13). Because of lack of love the routine of duty became irksome. (5) Not teaching the law to the people (2:1-9). Those set apart to teach God's law to the people have a great responsibility and God will most surely demand an accounting.

2. Against the People (2:10-17; 3:7-15). (1) For ungodly marriages (2:11, 12). God's purpose in the prohibition of mixed marriages was that He might raise up holy seed (v. 15). The marriage of the believer with the unbeliever today brings confusion into the fold of God and turns aside His purpose. (2) For divorce (2:13-16). Divorce was the source of great sorrow—even the tears of the wronged women covering the altar (v. 13). The offerings of a man who had thus treated his wife would be an abomination to God. The tears of wronged women today are going up to God and make even the prayers of some men an abomination to Him. (3) Public wrongs (3:5, 6). (a) Sorcery—magic. Those who practice such things should be regarded as public offenders. (b) Adultery. This is a sin of wider extent than the parties concerned. (c) False swearing. (d) Oppression of the hireling, widow and fatherless. (e) Turned aside the stranger from his rights. (4) Blasphemy (3:15).

III. The Severe Judgments Which Shall Befall the Nation (3:1-5; 4:1-6).

1. By Whom Executed. This is done by the Lord. Judgment has been committed to the Son of God (Acts 17:30-31).

2. Time of Second Coming of Christ. John the Baptist was the forerunner of His first coming. Elijah shall be the forerunner of His second coming.

3. Result. For the righteous it will be a day of healing and salvation. To the wicked it will be a day of burning and destruction. A book of remembrance is now being kept. A day of retribution is coming.

Even as He is Pure.
Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that, when He shall appear, we shall be like Him; for we shall see Him as He is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.—I John 3:2-3.

Not Afraid.
I laid me down and slept; I awaked; for the Lord sustained me. I will not be afraid of ten thousand people.—Psalm 5:3-6.
